

THE CLIMAX.

FRENCH TIPTON, W. G. WHITE,
WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 24, 1887.

There was a heavy frost at East Tawas, Michigan, on Friday.

General Simon Bolivar Buckner will be inaugurated Governor of Kentucky on next Tuesday Aug. 20th.

An Indian steamer was burned at sea when five days out from New York. The passengers were rescued by a passing steamer.

Another of those remarkable idiots, who shoot the wrong person first, showed up at Hammondsport, N. Y., on last Friday. Charles Knight shot his wife and then himself.

The Bourbon News says that THE CLIMAX has no more regard for the truth than Bill Bradley or the Louisville Commercial. THE CLIMAX could have even less than Joe Mulligan and then have more than the Bourbon News.

A Key West dispatch of Monday said that one new case and one death from yellow fever occurred that day. The total number of cases to date is 254; still sick, 40; discharged cured 160; deaths, 53.

The Taylor county bond trouble is to be aimlessly settled. At a meeting on last Saturday the resident holders of bonds unanimously agreed to accept twenty-five cents on the dollar on the face of their bonds and the same sum on all past-due coupons in new 6 per cent bonds of the county at par. An agreement to this effect was reduced to writing and signed by all the bond-holders.

In Lancaster county, South Carolina, an eight-year-old colored boy killed a three-year-old child with a shot gun, and wounded his sister. The colored youth of South Carolina, as we instance two or three weeks ago, seem bent on exterminating the human race. An armful of hickory limbs would do more good in South Carolina than in any state in the Union.

The Rowan county Circuit Court has cleared Taylor Young of the charge of conspiring to kill the Logan boys. The court is doing nothing of importance, and soon as the soldiers leave the war will re-open. There is one way, and only one, to settle the Rowan county trouble. Withdraw the soldiers and let the factious fight until all are killed off. The State can spare them.

From numerous counties, even from far away Lee county, comes information concerning the appointment of committees to represent said counties in the Industrial and Commercial Conference to be held at Louisville in September. Has Madison county a committee? We have not heard of it. Full information concerning the Conference was published in THE CLIMAX two months ago. Will Madison be unrepresented in that important Conference? But wait till we strike gas, and Madison will be heard from.

The Stanford Journal continues to remind its readers that there was something wrong with the late election. It says:

"In 1876 Kentucky gave Tilden in round numbers 63,000 majority. In 1876 she gave Blackburn 45,000; Knott received 44,000 in 1883. Cleveland 34,000 in 1884 and now Buckner gets in by a beggarly 17,000. What do you know is the matter with Hannah?"

Banbury wants to be State Commissioner of Agriculture, Horticulture and Statistics.

COMPREHENSIVE.

The Universal Peace Union, in session at New London, Conn., passed resolutions looking to the establishment of arbitration instead of war, between nations; also favoring woman suffrage, prohibition, justice for Ireland, conciliatory policy with the Indians, and denouncing capital punishment. Strange to say, the Union utters not a word indicative of its attitude toward either the baseball or right-lacing questions.—Courier Journal.

What about the Rebel Flags and chewing tobacco?

THE GAS BALLOON.

Louisville Commercial.

Whatever makes glad the heart of our thriving little neighbor, Jeffersonville, sends a corresponding thrill of joy up and down Louisville's spinal column. She is greatly elated over the discovery of natural gas at her doors, and a small-sized boom is beginning to fill her mortal eye. Jeffersonville must not become unduly excited. So far the prospects are medium, but there's many a slip between a natural gas well and a fortune. The capacity of this wonderful well has been quoted at one hundred thousand feet. Have the excited stockholders stopped long enough to calculate how really small an out-put that is? The Economic Heating company have been sinking wells down in Meade county, Ky. They, too, have struck gas in quantities far exceeding that of Jeffersonville. More than one million feet of gas was produced, but not less than ten million feet would answer their purpose. Unless the Jeffersonville company can strike gas in larger quantities, and secure a continuous flow, the find will not be worth the hole that is drilled in the ground.

The Commercial hopes that the discovery is all that the reporters are imagining it to be. If Jeffersonville has natural gas to spare, what is to prevent Louisville from sharing her good fortune? If we can not get it any other way we will be in favor of digging it over in jugs.

STAND TO YOUR OPINIONS.

Courier-Journal.

The Mobile Register is convinced that a good many Democrats in Kentucky voted the Republicans can ticket. Well, have it as you please gentlemen. The full returns show an increase of $1,000 in Bradley's vote compared to Blaine's; Buckner's vote falls short 9,000 of Cleveland's vote, while Labor and Prohibition get 13,000.

If we admit that $1,000 Democrats have voted for Mr. Bradley and against revenue reform, we find nothing in the opposition to make a change in the Democratic platform; men who oppose revenue reform, men who favor free whisky, but oppose free clothing; who have no faith in the State, in her future, and who insist on protection, on a policy which robbery persons for the benefit of one men who hold this faith belong with the Republicans.

There are 144,000 who hold views directly opposed to those held by the 8,000 who have gone into the Republican camp; shall 134,000 surrender to 8,000? We think not. On the contrary we believe there is a reserve strength in the Democratic party in Kentucky which has never yet been brought out. Our State platform has always been explicit enough; no more explicit this year than before, but when our Representatives and Senators have gone to Washington to fulfill the promise of the party, they have been thwarted by a small, but obstinate minority.

When the National Democratic party shows that it is in earnest for reform, when the President recommends and the caucus approves a genuine reform bill, a bill according to the Kentucky and the Ohio platforms, the Democratic majority in Kentucky will again soar above the fifties. It is the political strength of the party at par. An agreement to this effect was reduced to writing and signed by all the bond-holders.

The colored youth of South Carolina, as we instance two or three weeks ago, seem bent on exterminating the human race. "West-wet with the tears of drunkards' wives and children, whose natural protection have been snared and ruined by the open saloon."

A correspondent of the Courier-Journal, writing from Kavannah camp ground says:

"The religious services at Kavannah embrace almost the entire day. Mrs. Bishop Morris, a Christian of deep experience and of high intellectual culture, leads meetings for the ladies, continuing each day for an hour, and also for the young people for an hour. She has few equals in such peculiar work as this."

A man from Chicago was in Little Muddy, Dakota, at the confluence of the Little Muddy and Missouri rivers near the Montana line, last Sunday, and attended church. When prayer was offered the Chicago man knelt very devoutly, and was astonished to hear the minister shout:

"Here, you fellow with the coat on! none of you gettin' down behind the pew trying to get in the coat on me! If you're goin' anything agin me jes' pull your weepins when ye're up again—I'm headin' ready for ye! in the southern part of the town. Mr.

Baldwin will continue to run his farm.

Six gentlemen, whose given names were John, happened in front of the

First National Bank, and nobody else was present. As one of them walked away, John Smith came up.

Heavy Lams.

Recently Capt. Sam H. Stone sold a lot of lambs to Bales & Maupin. They sold one of the number, a March lamb, to Squire Jennings. It was weighed last week and pulled down a clear one hundred and forty-five pounds. Miss Lucy Gilbert sold one to some parties that weighed 137 pounds.

Handsome Present.

Everybody who attended the brilliant party at the Madison Club rooms noticed the elegant gold and wine portieres that separated the double parlors. Mr. Frank H. Adair, of this place, and his sister, Miss Julia Adair, of Carlisle, are the donors, and a right royal present it is for which the Club extends a vote of profound thanks.

Elliot Institute.

This school, located at Kirkville, will open on next Monday with Elder M. L. Elliott as Principal. Prof. E. W. Hopkins, of Eminence, educated at Kentucky University, will have charge of the Intermediate Department, and Prof. N. D. Laughlin, a graduate of Hiram College, Ohio, charge of the Primary. Miss Mamie L. Elliott, daughter of the Principal, is teacher of music, and Miss Mamie McCann, educated in Europe, is teacher of art.

River Improvement.

The annual report of Maj. Ames Stickney, Corps of Engineers, upon the river and harbor works under his charge, has just been received at the War Department. He says that considerable work not endangering navigation is required on the five locks and dams on the Kentucky river during next year, and to repair the locks and dams and extend slack-water navigation for a draught of six feet by the construction of additional locks at Bentonville will require the expenditure of $200,000 during the next fiscal year.

Silvery Slush.

People about Richmond, and especially those acquainted at the Garnett House two or three years ago, will recognize one of the names in the joined cholera-producing paragraphs from the Jacksonville, Florida, Times-Union, which we clip from the Cincinnati Enquirer of last Sunday:

We return thanks to Mr. D. P. Smith for some luscious pineapples. The fruit was sent her by her husband some son, D. Perkins Smith, of New Smyrna.

Mr. Will Simpson must now open up at last as he is irrecoverably caught. Miss Nettie M. Robertson having secured him "for better, for worse" on the 14th inst., at Jamestown, New York.

One of the enterprising livery men has spruced up noticeably lately, and is frequently seen hiding his face behind a dainty folding-fan, while his rose blouses glint down his golden mustaches, for there's another face behind that airy screen. What shall the harvest be?

"Girls, did you see Mr. Smith's tandem team yesterday evening? He had a man in riding with him, too! The perfect 'idea'?" The above gently upon the ear of our belle yesterday evening as the events of the day were being discussed by a bevy of beauties on one of our popular friend's piazzas. How is that, John?

Evening Parties.

On Thursday evening of last week, Miss Mary B. Harris entertained in her usual charming way at "Blythewood" in honor of Miss Lucy Shumis, of Paris. The spacious rooms, the long verandas and extensive grounds at "Blythewood" are peculiarly adapted to entertainments, especially in summer, affording the guests an abundance of room and fresh air. Miss Harris' parties are uniformly brilliant, and this last one was no exception. A delightful lunch, a band of music and dancing were features of the evening. A good number of visitors and home bellies and beauies were present, and all went home much happier for having been present.

On Wednesday evening, Mrs. C. D. Clements entertained in honor of her guests, Miss Sarah Holt, daughter of Judge Holt, of the Superior Court, and Miss Calie Clements, daughter of Mr. Wm. O. Clements, of this town. The guests were principally visitors from Richmond, and the elegant double parlors were comfortably filled. The laugh was delightful, and dancing claimed a large share of the evening. The belle feature was a pretty song by Kit, a petite five-year-old daughter of the hostess.

Day before, neat invitations had been issued for a party on Friday night at "Matthews'." The beautiful country home of Miss Mamie Baldwin, complimentary to Miss Jessie Williams, in Cincinnati, was the "idea." The evening was a uniformly pleasant and the attendance was large. The verandas, the halls, the parlor and the drawing-rooms were filled, and a happier time was never had. When the immediate house party was drawn, a beautifully decorated dining-room was disclosed. On the large table in the center was a miniature artificial lake banked with flowers and a pyramid of flowers in the middle. On the tea-tables around the room were cards bearing a large share of the evening. The belle feature was a pretty song by Kit, a petite five-year-old daughter of the hostess.

On Wednesday evening, after roll call and reading of the minutes, Prof. Leonard gave some very beneficial instructions in "Teaching the Properties of Numbers," after which Prof. Stoeckert of Pleasantville Normal School, talked on "The Study and Reading Lesson." The next thing on the programme was an essay by Miss Nannie Harcourt—subject, "The Advantages to the World from the Art of Painting," followed by Prof. Leonard, as to "How to Teach Composition and the Expression of Thought to Young Children." The Institute then adjourned for the day.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 17.

On Wednesday morning, after roll call and reading of the minutes, Prof. Leonard gave some very beneficial instructions in "Teaching the Properties of Numbers," after which Prof. Stoeckert of Pleasantville Normal School, talked on "The Study and Reading Lesson."

The next thing on the programme was an essay by Miss Nannie Harcourt—subject, "The Advantages to the World from the Art of Painting," followed by Prof. Leonard, as to "How to Teach Composition and the Expression of Thought," after which Dr. H. W. Bright gave a brief but interesting lecture on Physiology, and proved by experiment that Electricity and Nerve Force were separate and distinct.

Prof. Leonard next talked to us on the "Care of the Health." The programme for the day closed with music and refreshments.

EDITION CLIMAX.

The Columbian Theatre Company take pleasure in announcing the opening of the Hotel Monroe, Monroe and Dearborn Streets, on Monday, August 18th. This Hotel will be conducted on the European plan.

Every room will have electric bells and direct communication with the office through speaking tubes.

The best beds that money can provide will be furnished. Passenger elevator, heat in every room and all modern conveniences.

EVERYTHING ENTIRELY.

For rates and other particulars, address

DANIEL SHELDY, Manager.

Mr. Jones.

Concerning this Democratic Representative elect from Jessamine county, the Journal says:

"Mr. Jones, one of a family of ten children, was born in Madison county, Aug. 6th, 1860. He removed to this town at the age of ten with his father, Timothy Jones, who now lives at East Hickman. As the boy grew up, he attended the High school in Lexington where he remained two years. In the winter of 1882 he was graduated from Commercial College in Lexington. Always ambitious and industrious, Mr. Jones has made a success of everything he undertook. He has been a farmer, a trader and until recently for four years has carried on an extensive grocery and candy manufacturing business."

I. O. O. F.

The members of the Somerset Lodge No. 225, I. O. O. F. were highly favored on last Saturday night with a visit by A. J. Reed, D. D. G. M. of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky, who delivered an eloquent lecture replete with the principles of this grand order, and he also gave a clear elucidation of the unwritten work, all of which was listened to with great attention by the members present; at the conclusion of which the Lodge tendered a unanimous vote of thanks for the treat which was so richly enjoyed.

An election of officers was held by ballot and the following officers were elected: President, D. D. G. M. Reed, and the enthusiasm kindled by this worthy officer's visit will not be allowed to wane—Somerset Republic.

Walloped Again.

The shooting of Dr. A. Anthony, editor of the Leavenworth Times, by William W. Embry, a colored man, native of Richmond, and the subsequent killing of Embry by another party, will be reported by many here.

Anthony is a brother of Senator Wm. C. French and daughter of Mrs. Sam Lockett, Miss Lucy Gilbert, Misses Wagers and Baldwin, Mrs. John McRee, Mrs. Stanford, and Mrs. Dennis, of Louisville. Miss Mamie Baldwin, companion to Miss Jessie Williams, was ever watchful in seeing that everybody met with what was wanted, and that nobody wanted anything else, and that nobody wanted for anything. As at the other parties dancing claimed a good share of the evening. Besides Miss Williams were Miss Stella Clements, Miss Jessie Fox, Miss Lillian Samuels, Miss Sterling, Miss Mattie Lester, Washington, Miss Sarah Holt, Frankfort; Miss Mary McKinney, Stanford; Miss Jessie Atkinson, Lexington, Ky.; Miss Bessie Miller, Miss Mattie McDowell, Miss Minerva Phelps, Miss Belle Arnold, Miss Minnie Letcher, Miss Calie Clements, Miss Della Ramsey, Miss Maggie Clement, Miss Ollie Gregory, Miss Alice Brown, Miss Mary Burton, Miss Lila Clement, Miss Maggie Rayburn, Miss Annie Clement, Miss Marjorie Smith. Besides a large number of young gentlemen there were Mr. Johnson and Mr. Lycurgus Broadus, of South Carolina.

ESTILL SPRINGS.

The Montgomery Ball Club, composed of the young men of that county, will give an elaborate ball to-morrow night in Mt. Sterling, to the young people of Madison county.

The invitations are handsomely gotten up. They bear a monogram—M. B. C., and around it are the letters M. C. and R. S. C., which stand for Madison Club and Richmond Social Club. Also the motto of Kentucky—"United we stand, divided we fall," with the State design, and around it the words "Montgomery, Madison." The invitation reads:

"You are cordially invited to attend a ball given by the Montgomery Ball Club on Thursday evening, August 25th, 1887, in honor of the young people of Madison county. C. Cyrus Turner, President; T. J. Bigstaff, Dr. B. D. Bowditch, committee." This is a splendid compliment, unprecedented, so far as we know, and was brought forth by the royal treatment received by the numerous Montgomery county young people, who were present at the Richmond Fair. We hear that a large party will go over to Mt. Sterling from this place to-morrow.

We hear that a large party will go over to Mt. Sterling from this place to-morrow.

The latest music received is a song and chorus written and composed by that noted author, Will S. Hayes. It is entitled "Minnie May," Rogers, Tuley & Co., publishers, Louisville.

"There's no one like Mother to me" is a new song by Charles A. Davis, and is composed by J. C. Groene & Co., Cincinnati.

Found Dead.

R. V. Whitlock, a merchant at Round Hill, near Kirkville, committed suicide on last Thursday by taking morphine. He had been drinking considerably of late, and had said that he meant to take his life. He was found dead in his bed, and had evidently died in convulsions. He was about 50 years old and married.

"Run In."

The unfortunate individual, herein referred to, formerly resided in this place. At an early hour Friday morning an officer arrested C. H. Bishop and E. S. Hood
